Faubus, State Police Settle Their Troubles

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus told the State Police Commission today that he felt the main problem of the State Police Department was a breakdown in the chain of command.

Faubus said his investigation had "not revealed any major 'scandal' in the department but he had found and cleared up some minor matters.

Faubus met with the commission as it convened to discuss financial problems of the agency. State Police operations were curtailed last month because of a shortage of funds.

The minor problems Faubus described were use of State Police cars by some persons in his administration and misuse of convict labor which is normally assigned to State Police headquarters.

Both these practices have been stopped, the governor said, by agreement between himself and Col. Herman Lindsey, State Police director.

Faubus said his investigation was touched off by a lot of wild rumors and he told Lindsey "I'll half the things that are going around are true, you and I would both be in serious trouble."

However, Faubus said, his investigation had not uncovered anything major although there still some reports he had not checked out.

Faubus did not explain in detail his "chain of command" remark, but he said:

"There is no excuse for a troop defying a sergeant and that sergeant keeping his stripes. The same goes for a sergeant defying a lieutenant or a lieutenant defying a major."

In a brief interview after he left the commission meeting, Faubus was asked about the reference to (Continued on Page Eight)

U.S. Perks Up Watch Over Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. patrol planes and ships have intensified their watchfulness over Caribbean waters between Cuba and Central and South America, it was learned today.

These patrols, including some aircraft operating out of the Panama Canal Zone, keep tabs on all cargo and passenger type ships outbound from Cuba.

Of particular interests are 18 Soviet built trawlers believed operated by the Cubans. The Navy makes it its business to know where these are at all times.

When it is determined a ship may be heading for Latin America, the government concerned is notified. Thus, that government would be in position to send its own naval forces to halt any vessel suspected of carrying arms or men—or to ask for U.S. aid.

The Navy is especially alert for any concentrations of shipping in Cuban harbors, indicating an armed expedition might be gathering.

Authorities feel it would be virtually impossible for any kind of a serious military threat to be mounted from Cuba without being spotted in plenty of time to be intercepted.

The major problem lies in halting any Cuban subversives who might be tricked into Latin America aboard small craft.

There are literally thousands of fishing boats roaming the Caribbean and it is beyond Navy resources to check on all or even the bulk of them, sources said.

There is mounting evidence that the fleet and U.S. air elements arrayed in the Caribbean area would take forceful action if Fidel Castro's Soviet-equipped forces, with or without the help of Soviet troops in Cuba, made any overt move against Central or South America.

Finds Many Things Wrong With Sub

By JAMES CALOGERO

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—A Navy court of inquiry has received a list of more than a dozen malfunctions that plagued the nuclear submarine Thresher before she went on sea trials April 10 and was lost with 129 men aboard.

Lt. Raymond A. McCool, 33, of Dover, N.H., told the court Thursday the heavy load of corrective work robbed the crew of sufficient training in disaster procedures.

McCool emphasized however, that all the work was completed properly and the Thresher was in excellent condition when she put out to sea on her final voyage.

While the court continued its investigation of the tragedy at Portsmouth naval shipyard where the Thresher was built, an oceanographic vessel, Atlantis II, took on scientific equipment at Woods Hole, Mass., and prepared to return Saturday to its search for the remains of the submarine.

The Boston Globe published a report Thursday that the Thresher had been found but it was quickly denied by officials at Woods Hole and the Navy in Washington.

The court resumed hearings today, its opening proceeding behind closed doors, to hear testimony on classified information.

4,666 See Aerialist Die in Fall

By RANDALL W. BLAKE

OMAH, Neb. (P)—Yetta Grotolent, 42, of the famed circus aerialist family, the Wallenses, died in a 50-foot fall from her slender gray pole at a Shrine Circus performance Thursday night.

She had reached the climax of her solo act and was swaying back and forth in a wide arc when, as the pole was on a back swing, Yetta suddenly tumbled backward and plummeted to her death as 4,666 spectators watched in awed silence.

She was the third member of the troupe to die in a fall in the last 16 months.

Dieter Schepp, 23, and Richard Faughnan, 29, were killed in Detroit on Jan. 30, 1962, in a high wire accident involving seven members of the troupe.

Yetta was not a member of that act.

What caused the death of the 42-year-old Yetta?

A member of the Kristensen troupe of equestrians said in a taped interview that "I think she must have passed out up there because she didn't scream or nothing."

Several other circus people said they had heard Yetta wasn't feeling well before she began her solo act.

Some spectators said the aerialist appeared to slip.

In an interview in Detroit in 1958, Yetta had said that when she was on the indoor pole "it seems so little I feel I have to do more to impress the audience. I get a little reckless."

That comment had followed her explanation of her preference for the 122½-foot pole she used outdoors and on which, she said, "You can really sway, what with the height and the wind."

Fellow performers said Yetta had been nervous since the circus opened here Monday. They said her apparatus had been damaged last week in Florida and temporary repairs had been made.

Yetta fell face upward until she hit a guide rope 15 feet above the sawdust floor.

The impact spun her around and she hit the floor spread-eagled and face downward. She never uttered a sound as she fell.

Among the first to reach the stricken woman was her husband, Arthur, who had rigged the ropes for her act and was standing about 50 feet from where she landed. He was given sedatives after the accident.

Circus performers said the dead woman was born Henrietta Kreis in Germany and that with her sister, Helen, she came to the United States and joined the Wallenses troupe. Helen married Karl Wallenda.

Arthur Grotolent is Karl's half-brother. The Grotolents lived in Sarasota, Fla.

Blevins Area Buys Polled Hereford Bull

The polled hereford bull purchased with the aid of Sears Roebuck & Co. has been well accepted in the Blevins community. The bull was purchased about 12 months ago at the age of 22 months.

The bull has been used by 8 different farmers on a few head of grade cows. Some of these cows have calved and the calves look very good.

The bull is now being used by Dewey Haugland, and two other farmers plan to use him in the near future.

When not being used by some farmer, the polled hereford bull is being cared for by Johnny Taylor. Anyone in the Blevins school district can use the bull for a fee of $2.50 per cow.

The bull will be sold to some one needing a proven bull this fall or next spring.

Would Give Battle to Communism

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A special committee of the Organization of American States has recommended that all of the American republics organize to "give battle" to communism.

The report by an eight-nation committee has not been made public but its contents became known today to The Associated Press.

The OAS document was drafted by a committee of representatives from Argentina, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Panama, Peru, El Salvador and the United States.

The document says "the intervention of the Sino-Soviet powers in this hemisphere, via Cuba, has increased notably in the last year." It said the increases came in the form of a buildup of Soviet military power in Cuba and greater use of that island as a base from which to foment subversion in other countries.

"The intensification of the Soviet military power in Cuba is the source of grave concern for all the governments and peoples of the continent," the report says. The committee recommended that member nations:

1. Enforce all existing recommendations of inter-American conferences and meetings of foreign ministers held since 1948 in relation to subversion and handling of agents of sabotage and propaganda.
2. Build up security and intelligence services to put them in a position "to give battle to subversive activities of international communism."
3. Avail themselves of technical services of the OAS on security matters.
4. Exchange information among the different nations on activities of followers of Cuba Prime Minister Fidel Castro and Communists.

City Officials in Approval of $1.3 Million Project

The City Board of Directors, at a special meeting held at the City Hall at 7:30 p. m. last night passed resolutions requesting a federal grant of approximately $700,000 for street and drainage work.

In the event the city is successful in obtaining this grant, it will be necessary to raise local funds to match this on a 50-50 basis. The Water and Light Commission met jointly with the city officials for a discussion of the possibilities of financing the community's part of the street program.

The application is for funds made available for an accelerated public works program started by the federal government last year in order to stimulate work in areas of chronic unemployment. At the time, Hempstead County was not eligible to receive such aid because the percentage of unemployment did not, according to the statistics, meet the requirements of a depressed area. A recent survey of labor conditions by the Arkansas Employment Security Division revealed that Hempstead County now qualifies.

Last year Congress appropriated $400 million to this program, and it was quickly absorbed in public works programs. The Congress recently allocated another $450 million.

The Board of City Directors authorized City Manager Garland Modders and the engineering firm of John Hawkins & Associates to complete and file this application as quickly as possible. Federal officials estimate that there will be applications for many times the amount of available funds. While this application is being processed, the community will have to work out an answer to the problem of local financing.

In discussing the possibility of local financing, the city officials and the Water and Light Commission discussed the possibilities of tax bonds which would be limited to approximately $300,000 since this is the amount that could be funded by a five-mill tax which is the maximum millage that can be voted for street improvements.

While the problem of local financing will take considerable more study, it appeared that there was a possibility that the five-mill tax together with federal money would pay for all of the costs of a street except the curb. This would mean that any property owner who would pay for the curb could have a street built at no additional cost to him. This was not adopted as a definite solution to be presented to the public, but plans were discussed for holding some public hearing on the matter to develop the most feasible plan of raising the local monies which will be necessary in event the federal grant can be obtained.

Ark. Baptist College Day Here Tues.

April 23rd is Arkansas Baptist College day in Hope. The mayor of the city and the chamber of commerce have granted permission for solicitations to be made throughout the city for the college. Our slogan for this day "Help save Arkansas Baptist College."

2 Live Ghosts, Steel and Cuba Are Out Again

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two live ghosts of the administration's biggest crises — Cuba and steel prices — have slipped out of the closet again. And President Kennedy may explain today what he may do about them.

His forum: A meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. The men who sometimes advise him in black and white on what he should and shouldn't do.

On steel, his audience of editors seems ready to advise him not to fight a round of increases in the price of steel.

Without exception, editors who were interviewed gave the opinion Kennedy should accept the wave of "selective" increases.

The White House announced that Kennedy would be ready to answer questions on steel in a question and answer session following his luncheon address at the society's annual meeting.

The fresh wave of controversy over Cuba, fanned Thursday night in Miami by exile leader Jose Miro Cardona, also is likely to prompt some pointed questions by the editors.

In quitting as president of the Cuban Revolutionary Council, Miro said Kennedy promised after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion of April 1961 that there would be another invasion to topple Fidel Castro and then reneged.

His statement was generally met with cool silence here. The White House announced there would be no comment. The State Department—Continued on Page Five

Showers and Storms Hit in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thunderstorms broke over most of Arkansas this morning, bringing some relief to areas suffering from near-drought conditions.

The forecast called for widely scattered showers and thunderstorms ending from the west today, but more rain was predicted for the first of next week.

Today's rain occurred along and in advance of a cold front extending southward like a finger from a low pressure trough in the northern plains.

The front was moving eastward and was expected to push across Arkansas from the northeast by this evening.

Farmers in the northern portion of the state, particularly in the Harrison-Boone County area, had feared the prolonged dry weather would cause intensive crop damage. The strawberry crop was in particular danger. Agricultural officials said a short period of rain should relieve the situation.

Cloudy to partly cloudy skies were expected today through Saturday with little change in temperatures.

Highs of 75 to 85 were predicted for today. Lows tonight were expected to be in the 50s northwest to the 60s elsewhere.

Temperatures during the next five days were expected to average 5 to 10 degrees above the normal highs of 68 to 79 and the normal lows of 48 to 56.

Scattered thundershowers during the first of next week were expected to total one-quarter to three-quarters of an inch.

Overnight lows reported around the state this morning ranged from the low 60s to the low 70s. Rain was reported over most of the state during the 24-hour period ending today at 6 a.m.

Next Week is Dedicated to Libraries

National Library Week will be observed April 21-27. Over 5,000 communities in all fifty states will join in the sixth observance of the year-round program, designed to encourage lifetime reading habits and create wider use and support of libraries of all kinds.

With the theme-Read The Fifth Freedom-Enjoy it-Library Week provides special opportunities to emphasize the personal rewards in reading and increase interest in developing the reading resources that serve the community.

Eighteen million Americans have no library services and 110 million Americans have inadequate library services. Of these 128 million, 65 million are in rural areas. Estimated current annual per capita expenditure is $1.62. The recommended minimum annual expenditure is $3.50. The per capita expenditure for public libraries in Arkansas the past biennium has been 68c. At least $3.00 per capita is needed for good public library service in library systems serving from 50,000 to 100, 000 population. During 1962 the per capita expenditure for library services to the Hempstead-Nevada Regional Library was approximately 79c.

Eleven million students are in public schools without central libraries. Two thirds of all elementary schools have no school libraries.

In the two year colleges, fewer than 15 per cent meet the 20,000 volume minimum standard and in four year colleges, fewer than 50 per cent meet the 50,000 volume minimum standard.

Arkansas has twelve counties which are not supported by the one mill library tax. Of these counties all but one has a public library supported by means other than the county tax.

There are thirteen regional libraries in the state serving 39 counties. The goal for Arkansas is the establishment of strong multi-county units to serve the entire state. Nine bookmobiles are in use in nine multi-county libraries serving thirty-three counties.

Hempstead Nevada Regional Library has approximately 40,000 books in its collection. The circulation during 1962 was 187,719. In 1962 Hempstead Nevada Regional Library extended service to rural Miller county on a demonstration basis and the circulation for the year includes the books checked out in Miller county.

Launched in 1959, National Library Week has achieved a notable record in alerting the public to the need for a "better read, better informed" America. The year-round reading development program is a non-profit citizens' movement, sponsored by the National Book Committee, Inc., in cooperation with the American Library Association, with the active participation of sixty national organizations of all kinds.

This Week is a good time to take a look at your public library, school library and college library

AP&L Cited by Power Commission

WASHINGTON (AP)—Arkansas Power & Light Co. has been ordered to show cause why it should not be found to be violating the federal power Act because of alleged failure to file rate schedules covering wholesale electric sales.

The Federal Power Commission issued the order Tuesday, saying AP&L had made 23 sales at wholesale for resale by purchasers with whom no rate schedule is on file with the commission.

A hearing is scheduled for June 24 in Washington on the case. AP&L operates in Arkansas, Missouri, Louisiana and Tennessee.

Big Steel Feels Price Will Hold

By SAM DAWSON
 AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel companies are betting their price increases will hold in the improving climate for business in general. Times have turned definitely better in recent weeks. This shows up in many other ways than in increasing demand for certain steel products—a demand that is partly inspired by the urge to build up stocks because of the possibility of a steel strike late in the summer.

Industrial production as a whole has turned up after a lengthy period of stagnation, with gains in steel tonnage just part of the picture. Unemployment has dropped a bit. Manufacturing payrolls show an impressive gain.

Taking heart from this perhaps, corporations have raised their sights for spending on new equipment and plants. Retail sales are advancing slowly, but the public seems in a buying mood for what it wants—high volume of auto sales being a prime example.

With business in general improving, the steel companies figure their customers are less likely to resist price rises. The steel firms were moved to action perhaps as much by this as by their long chafing against profit squeezes. Steelmen hope the price increases will stick even after the buildup of inventories as a strike hedge stops. This would follow clearing of wage demand intentions of the steelworkers and, hopefully, a settlement without a strike.

Many outside the industry wonder if the customers, once the inventory buildup stops, will look to foreign steel at lower prices or turn still more to substitute materials. Then it might take an even better general business climate than at present to make all the price rises hold.

But currently the news and the prospects are good.

Manufacturing payrolls have climbed to a record annual rate of $95.4 billion. The rise in March was at an annual rate of $700 million, following a $900-million jump in February.

This was the biggest item in pushing total personal income up to a record $452.7 billion a year. Even if the fairly high rate of saving continues, about 93 per cent of that sum will be spent. And many industries expect to increase their takes.

A rise of about $14 billion to $15 billion in consumer expenditures this year is predicted by Dr. James J. O'Leary, vice-president of the Life Insurance Association of America.

And new financing in the credit markets this year may top last year's record $62.4 billion, according to Dr. Roy L. Reiersen, senior vice president of Bankers Trust Co., New York. The bank's estimate for 1963 is $62.9 billion. It expects another increase in home mortgages to account for much of the gain.

Looking at the whole picture, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York notes that "the tone of business news has improved since the middle of the first quarter."

New orders for durable goods have gone up impressively. And apparently the makers of pricing policy in the steel industry have been impressed.

5 grades prices

...A new way to buy gasoline and save up to 3¢ a gallon

5 grades...5 prices...blended in the gas pump
 ...blended exactly to fit your car

Half of all U. S. car owners buy the wrong grade of gasoline. Many waste money buying premium octane power their cars can't possibly use.

Others risk engine damage by using a regular grade which causes knock and loss of power, because the engine requires higher octane fuel.

Why is this true? Until now, car owners had to choose between only two or three grades of gasoline—which cannot meet the wide variety of octane requirements of cars on the road today. But now, you can buy precisely the right gasoline for your car—and save money, too!

Drive in to your nearby Lion Dealer's and change to new Lion Octane-Blended Gasoline, blended right in the nozzle in any one of five different octane ratings...at five different prices...one of them exactly right for your car.

Each blend is top-quality Lion gasoline with the exclusive

Lionite® additive that prevents pre-ignition knock or ping... keeps spark plugs clean... improves engine breathing by keeping the carburetor clean.

Here's how Lion Octane-Blending works: The special Octane-Blending pump draws two separate fuels from two underground tanks, feeding them through a hose-within-a-hose in the exact proportion pre-selected for your car.

The lower the octane rating your car needs, the more you save...1¢, 2¢, even 3¢ a gallon! And Lion is the only place you can get it.

Stop in at your Lion Dealer's next time you're out. He'll help you select the correct blend for your car. Change to Lion Octane-Blended Gasoline, and keep the change!

Giants Aided by Balks in Houston Win

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The problem plaguing pitchers and managers is trying to find some sort of yardstick for measuring a second in an attempt to halt the mushrooming number of balk calls disrupting action in National League games.

Balk calls may have been the decisive factor for the first time Thursday as Willie Mays was waved home from third base twice in San Francisco's 6-3 victory over Houston. In all, five balks were called in the game.

One balk was called at Milwaukee, where the Braves retained first place with their seventh straight victory, 6-5 over Philadelphia, and one was charged at St. Louis, where Pittsburgh edged the Cardinals 3-2. No balks were called as the Chicago Cubs whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1 in the only other game scheduled.

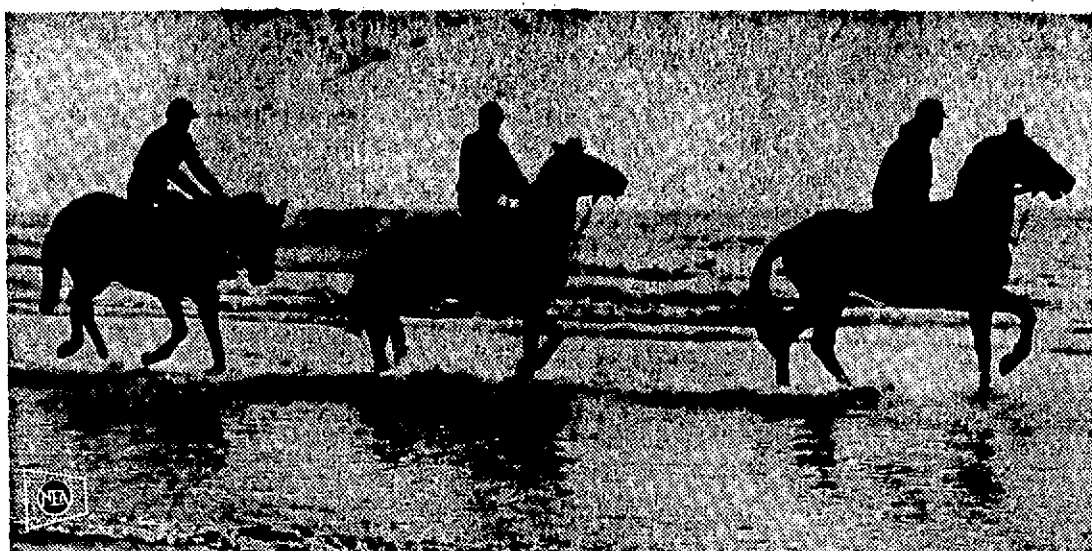

The American League's two-game program saw Dick Stigman pitch a three-hitter for Minnesota's 3-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels and Ray Herbert pitch a three-hitter in the Chicago White Sox's 3-0 victory over Kansas City.

The three balks called on Houston pitchers in the game and the two against Giants' starter Jack Sanford, made a total of 11 for the three-game series in which Augie Donatelli's umpiring team strictly enforced the rule requiring a pitcher to pause a full second before delivery.

Including the two balks called in other games, 39 have been charged in less than two weeks of the season. Donatelli's crew has called 20. The major league record is 76, set in 1950. There still has not been a balk called in American League games.

The Giants led 3-2 going into the fifth inning. Mays opened with a double, moved to third on a balk call and eventually scored the decisive run on another balk call, both charged to reliever Russ Kemmerer. Mays then scored in the seventh on a balk call. George Brunet took the loss.

The Braves won it with a run in the ninth contributed by the Phillies' fifth error. Hank Aaron

Porkers Errors Prove Costly

CLINTON, Miss., (AP)—Arkansas made four errors Thursday, allowing Mississippi College three runs and its first shutout victory of the baseball season.

Jack Root gave up seven hits and as many walks in his eight and two-thirds innings. Dan Muthollan went the distance for Arkansas, yielding five hits. He struck out nine.

Mississippi College picked up its safety margin in the third on singles by Kenny Pittman and Charles Garrett and two errors. Garrett single again in the sixth, stole second and scored on a wild throw from the outfield. Arkansas defeated the Mississippians 7-3 Wednesday to split the two-game series.

Bass Biting, Lunkers Hiding

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The bass are biting, but the lunkers are hiding and anglers in the Hot Springs Fishing Derby thus far haven't been able to come up with a record catch.

J. A. Burger of Malvern topped all in the bass division Thursday with a six pound, 12 ounce largemouth. About 60 fishermen took to the water Thursday.

led off with a double off loser Ray Culp and came home when catcher Clay Dymple fired past third in an attempt to get Aaron on Norm Larker's bunt.

Bill Virton drove in his second run with a ninth inning single, giving the Pirates and Don Schwall the victory over the Cardinals. Schwall had to leave after eight innings with stomach pains. ElRoy Face finished up.

The Cubs made the most of three Dodger errors, scoring three unearned runs and beating Don Drysdale, now 2-1, for the first time since 1960. Glen Hobbie, won it with ninth inning relief help from Don Elston.

Shutouts Are Feature of American Loop

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The early returns are in on baseball's enlarged strike zone, and they come as no great surprise—the pitchers love it and the hitters are demanding a recount. With the major league season less than two weeks old, the game — for a change — is showing some mercy for the long-oppressed men who earn their living on the mound. It's no longer a batters' paradise.

In the only two games played in the American League Thursday, pitchers carved out almost identical three-hit, 3-0 shutouts.

That was the margin of veteran Ray Herbert's victory for the Chicago White Sox over the Kansas City Athletics. Dick Stigman of the Minnesota Twins duplicated the feat in beating the Los Angeles Angels, also 3-0.

The National League is suffering from a different kind of pitchers' plague — balks. Or is it an umpires' disease? A total of seven were called Thursday, raising the season's total in the National League to 39. None has been called in the AL.

Five were called in the San Francisco-Houston game, won by the Giants 6-3. There was one at Milwaukee where the Braves won, 6-5 over Philadelphia and one at St. Louis, where Pittsburgh edged the Cardinals 3-2.

In the only other NL game scheduled, the Chicago Cubs defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-1.

Herbert, sidelined for nine days with a stiff arm after being knocked out in his opener, came back powerfully. He served line drive singles to the first two men he faced—Dick Howser and Joe Tartabull—and then settled down to retire 21 of the next 22 men.

Gino Cimoli got the only other safety, a single in the eighth. Dave Nicholson's first home run of the year was Chicago's big blow against loser Ed Rakow.

Stigman didn't permit a Los Angeles runner to get beyond second base and he allowed only one extra-base hit — a double by Jim Fregosi in the fifth.

Earl Batey opened the Twins' scoring with a home run off starter Ken McBride in the second. The Minnesotans added two more in the fifth.

Travelers Suffer First Loss

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Syracuse shortstop Ray Oyler made a diving catch for a double play to halt a scoring threat and hand the Chiefs their first victory of the International League baseball season Thursday, a 2-1 decision over the Arkansas Travelers.

Indianapolis downed Columbus 9-3, Toronto blasted Atlanta 11-4, Rochester stomped Jacksonville 5-1 and Richmond eked a victory over Buffalo, 9-8 in other league play.

The defeat was the first of the season for the Travelers, against two victories.

The Arkansas team had runners on first and third and only one man out when Oyler made his play. Jerry Riemer lined toward center on the first pitch. Oyler caught the ball about a foot off the ground and doubled Cal Emery off first base to end the inning.

Riverboat Smith allowed no earned runs and held Syracuse hitless in the last five innings, but was still charged with the loss. The Travelers picked up their sole run in the first on a triple by Richie Allen and a single by Emery.

Both of Syracuse's runs came on passed balls. Gates Brown doubled in the fourth and scored on a wild pitch and passed ball. Dan Wert came home in the sixth via a walk, sacrifice fly to the infield and another passed ball.

All the visiting teams hope to make it two in a row tonight in the international league.

Maybe it was the young season, but the visitors were very much on their toes and the baseball teams at home just didn't have it Thursday night.

The teams do not travel today. Indianapolis is at Columbus, Richmond at Buffalo, Rochester at Jacksonville, Syracuse at Little Rock, and Toronto at Atlanta.

The maple leaves slammed three Atlanta pitchers for a total of 18 hits for their first win of the season. It was the Crackers' initial loss.

Toronto's Fred Green held the Crackers in check for 8 and 2-3 innings, but Atlanta broke loose in the bottom of the ninth for three runs, not enough. The 2,008 Cracker fans had little to cheer about except Jack Damasaka's home run in the third and a two-run triple in the ninth.

Steve Demeter led Toronto with a double and three singles.

Green Bay, Packers Have Replacements

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The Green Bay Packers may not have another Paul Hornung on their roster but they have capable replacements for that open halfback job in Tom Moore and possibly Earl Gros.

Vince Lombardi, addicted to the system of using two big backs such as Jim Taylor and Hungling in the same backfield, may give some thought to using Gros, a 1962 rookie fullback from Louisiana State.

The obvious replacement for Hornung, suspended indefinitely by the National Football League for betting on games, is Moore. Moore, 24, a former Vanderbilt player took over last season when Hornung was sidelined by a knee injury.

Gros, 22, the Packers' No. 1 draft choice in 1961 after a brilliant career at LSU, was behind Taylor at fullback. As Taylor played most of the time, Gros did not get too much chance to show his stuff. When he did get in the game, he was impressive with his power running and blocking.

As defending champions, the Packers must be ready early to play the College All-Stars in Chicago. After the exhibition season, they must head full tilt into a rugged opening schedule.

The Lions must dig deep to come up with a replacement for Alex Karras, their 250-pound defensive tackle, who also was suspended indefinitely by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for betting.

Karras and big Roger Brown, his 296-pound running mate, led the charge that ruined Bart Starr and the Packers last Thanksgiving Day. Because Karras and Brown played most of the time, the third tackle, Mike Bundra, didn't get too much of a chance. Bundra, 23, is a 6-foot-4 inch 260-pounder from Southern California who was the Lions' No. 6 draft choice after winning three varsity letters at Southern Cal.

Joe Schaffernoth, the league's winningest pitcher with 18 victories last year, was tagged for a home run by Ken Hamlin, gave Sam Bowers a walk and then fed another home run pitch to Steve Bilko.

After the Sun righthander gave up a double to Joe Allobelli, he was replaced by Minn Hawkins. Allobelli got a two-run homer off Hawkins in the third, then it was Mike Cueller on the mound and finally Dave Tyriver.

The Richmond Virginians made the most of 11 hits and eight runs in the fifth to wallop the Buffalo Bisons. The setback was the first for the Bisons in five home openers, with the loss being charged to Carl Mathias.

Three home runs—two by Tom McCraw and another by Don Buford—accounted for six of the Indianapolis runs as they won their second straight game at the expense of the Columbus Jets. Buford's homer came with two mates aboard in the sixth.

Newcomer Is Leading at Houston

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Tommy Aaron, a young newcomer, held a one stroke lead over Jack Nicklaus in a tight field going into the second round of the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic today.

Nine others, including Gary Player, were four strokes off the pace set by the 1960 Western Amateur champion.

Aaron, a Gainesville, Ga., native who now calls Gainesville, Fla. his home, took the lead Thursday with six birdies for a 6-under-par 64 in the first round. His 31-33-64 tied the first round record set by Jimmy Clark in 1951.

Nicklaus' 30-35-65 for the 7,021-yard, par 70 Memorial Park course included five birdies that tied the front nine record set by Walter Burkemo in 1954.

Jerry Steelsmith took a 36-31-67 which tied a back nine record set by Jerry Barber in 1955.

The first round saw Kermit Zarley, the NCAA champion from the University of Houston, take over third place with a 33-33-66. Steelsmith and three others were tied with 67s while Player headed a four-way tie at 68.

Aaron, 26, took 27 putts, Nicklaus and Zarley 25. Aaron was par or better all the way. Nicklaus had two bogeys and seven

Celtic Coach Is Worried About Bench

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Coach Red Auerbach of the Boston Celtics is concerned about his bench for tonight's fourth game of the National Basketball Association's championship series with the Los Angeles Lakers.

"I don't know if John Havlicek will be available," said the unhappy Auerbach. "We had a short workout Thursday and he tried to run a bit, but I really don't know if we can use him."

Havlicek, rookie from Ohio State who has had a fine season with the Celtics, was hurt in the first game of the series at Boston. He hurtled across a sideline trying to retrieve a wild pass, and fell behind the Laker bench into the crowd. He suffered a wrenched ankle.

"We've missed Havlicek and our bench strength has been sharply curtailed by that accident," said Auerbach. "Bill Russell didn't get too much help Wednesday night and everybody will have to go all out if we are to win tonight."

Wednesday's game was a sell-out at 15,493, which established a high for a basketball game at the Sports Arena. The contest tonight also is sold out, but the game will be telecast via closed circuit to two theater screens.

Laker Jerry West, whose 42-point performance was a big factor in Wednesday's game, says Los Angeles will have to control the boards again to knot the best-of-7 series at 2-2.

DOROTHY DIX

BATTLING PARENTS MAKE MAN SKEPTICAL OF MARRIAGE

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: All I heard from childhood on were arguments between my father and mother. Then came four years of peace in the army, with only the sergeant to sound off at us. I came home to the same old battles. My mother kept nagging me to marry and leave the lousy house but after seeing how she and Dad ruined their lives, I was afraid of marriage.

My brothers and sisters married early and made something of their lives. Why I stayed on at home for 43' wretched years, I'll never know. Everything I ever wanted to do was condemned.

Finally I wound up with a job I hated but which paid well. When I said it's not for me, Dad shouted I'd wind up a bum. Since money was all that counted with him and Mother, I took to gambling on the stock market. That crash last May wiped me out. I'm still at the hated job and living with Dad, now an old man. Mother died a few years ago and, strange to tell, I miss her — guess she was the reason I stayed on in our so-called home.

Age has quieted Dad but the damage has been done. How parents can ruin a child's life!

If the truth were told, I'll bet this has happened to thousands of other sons and daughters.

How do I get on the straight road or is it too late? —Disgusted with Life

Dear Disgusted: Having lived through those unhappy years, what have you to fear now? If you hate the work you're doing, chuck it. Many men fail to realize their dreams until late in life.

The right road is easy to find once you decide where you are going. Sit down and get acquainted with yourself. The secret lies in knowing what you want and having the will to do it. Stop reliving the wretched past.

Sure, you tolerated a situation which nobody with any spirit would have stood. But that's past. Have a physical check-up (your mental depression may be caused by poor eating habits), buy some new clothes and see every day as a new beginning. And, how about your brothers and sisters taking care of father for a change?

You've earned your freedom. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ambition."

Dear Helen: I am a 14-year-old girl who lives on a mid-Western farm, helps with the planting, drives the tractor, does most of the housework and goes to school. My mother is a seamstress and my father not too well. The farm, with what he and I do, plus occasional outside help, supports us.

I have five older sisters, four of whom are married. The other sister, now going on 17, is the beauty of the family and the favorite of our parents. I'm home-ly as a mud fence. My grades are fair. C's and B's. I love to read and hope to become a secretary. My problem is overweight or, in plain words, "Fat."

I crave food like mad. I know how an alcoholic feels. I am young and want to be happy but how can I with all these strikes against me? —Discouraged Teen-ager.

Dear Discouraged: Your problem is psychological eating, the one thing in which you can indulge yourself, has become compulsive. That's a common complaint.

Your sister's beauty is contrasted to your homeliness is obviously at the root of your inferiority complex. Actually, you are probably a far more capable and admirable person than she. The same mind you must use to do all that farm, house and school work, can be used to discipline your eating habits. Buy a calorie counter. Build your eating habits around the low calorie, nonfattening foods.

Do this on a day to day basis, being careful to weigh yourself each morning. If you are persistent and have the determination, you'll be wearing a size 12 by the end of the summer. But even more important will be the lasting beauty which comes with development of character.

Dear Helen: Tell that mother of five who worries about loss of memory that she needs competent medical advice (which incidentally, is hard to find). My son, 15, suffered from absent-mindedness, failed at school, was tired, irritable and could not remember things that happened the previous day. Guess what? His thyroid was out of balance. That mother of five had better check and double check. Mental hygiene, as you suggested, is fine, but the physical counts too. —A Reader Who Wants to Help.

Dear Reader: You're right. Glands are often a factor.

Have you a problem? Perhaps Helen Worden Erskine can help you. Write her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ment again called the Cubans' account of things "a distortion."

The editors heard about Cuba Thursday from Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

"A quick and successful Castroctomy operation may no longer be possible," said Keating, "but this is no justification for pretending that sugar coated pills can make drastic surgery unnecessary."

Rusk repeated what he has said before, that "the Soviet military presence in Cuba is not to be accepted as a normal state of affairs. He could not, of course, foretell when or how the island's Communist rule will be broken.

Asked about the steel increases, the editors interviewed held unanimously that the new prices would not justify a mobilization of government pressure such as Kennedy used in 1962 to force the industry to rescind a general $6-a-ton increase.

Honest Fellow, Not So Honest

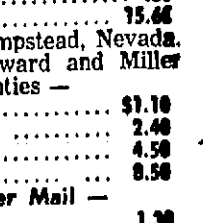

CONWAY, Ark. (AP) — Eugene Rogers, 31, a Negro who found $350 at Conway about a year ago and returned the money to its owner, is charged with taking furniture from his employer.

Sheriff Joe Castleberry of Faulkner County said Rogers, charged with burglary and grand larceny, admitted taking lamps, tables, chairs, mattresses and chests from McDuffie's Furniture Center at Conway for about a year.

Deputy Prosecutor Guy H. Jones said Rogers is being held under $1,000 bond. A Conway service station owner said last year he lost $350 and Rogers returned it to him.

The Junior Choir of Bethel A.M.E. Church will sponsor a well-ner roast on the church lawn Saturday night, April 20, 1963 at 7:30. The public is invited.

"I hate to pass by this place! It always reminds me of Janie's father!"

A DEAD ENDING

THE STORY: While Cornelius Ryan is trying to find Matt Higby, his legal client who is suspected of murder, Frances Terrill tells how she met Higby about three years ago.

XVII
"He never asked a thing about me, or how I happened to be in the trouble I was in. He drew his own conclusions—like Dawn has. I met him again at the Oak Room in the Plaza—his suggestion. He brought me in a cab to this building. We came to this apartment and he opened the door."

"For you and your daughter," he said.
"I just laughed at him. I knew what the rent in a place like this was. I had no idea how much money he had. How could I from the Greenwich dive? It came out he'd rented the place, signed a five year lease. I said something about how could I afford it—waiting for the pitch."

"I'll lend you the money," he said.
"Great," I said. "And how do I pay it back?"
"We'll worry about that when you get back on your feet."

"Well, to make a long story short, we spent about three weeks furnishing the place—and in all that time he never once asked anything of me. Finally I moved in. We went to dinner that first night and then back here. I used the old cliché line about excusing me for a minute while I got into something more comfortable. He smiled at me, as you might smile at a child who doesn't understand something that's quite simple for an adult. He had to go home, he said. He had a very busy day coming up and had to have his rest."

"I couldn't figure it," Frances laughed again. "Next evening when he came I was already in 'something comfortable.' He telephoned to the nearest Long-camps and had dinner sent up."

"Then—then he made his move. It was, he said too soon for me to know my own mind. He didn't expect an answer yet. But he wanted me to marry him."

Frances' voice cracked when she got to that point in her story and she obviously was fighting tears.

"I—I told him then it was impossible—not then, not ever. I told him I wasn't the kind of woman he could want to marry."

She was trying to explain it to herself as much as to us. "He has a deeply moral strain in him. He could never forget what he thought he knew about me."

"He said all that mattered was the kind of person you were now; what you might have been some other time didn't matter. There were things in his life he wasn't proud of."

"I remember one thing he said: 'Everything, good and bad, about us makes us what we are today. You wouldn't be the same without the bad things, any more than you'd be the same without the good things.' Kindergarten stuff, I told him. But he meant it. I told him one of the bad things

Jan Ellis
This week Jan Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred O. Ellis, received the Joe Amour award, a quarterly presentation by the Student Council in memory of the former principal. Vince Foster, council president, presented the award. Recently Jan was recipient of a $300 scholarship for placing second in Arkansas in the Betty Crocker contest.

about me was that I was an alcoholic. If I couldn't get over it I wasn't fit for anybody. 'If you can get to love me,' he said, 'you'll get over it.' The awful thing is I did get to love him. I do love him. And I can't get over it."

She turned from the window to look at me with a kind of angry defiance. "That's how I came to meet the kindest, most generous, most thoughtful man I've ever known. Corny. Little Miss Self-righteousness here—" and her eyes blazed at Dawn "—thinks he's a cheap punk. And that I have a scarlet letter pinned to my chest because I accept his support. May she be lucky enough to find as good a man as Matt—Hew Higby some day."

"Mother, I—" Dawn began.
"Shut up. Shut up both of you!" Frances shouted.

She poured herself another drink and swallowed it without lowering the glass.

She turned and hurried down the hall to her room.

Dawn sat on the edge of the couch staring at me from behind those dark glasses. I'd been much moved by Frances' recital than I liked to admit, and it came out in impatience.

"Why don't you take off those glasses so I can see what you look like," I said to Dawn.

She took them off, meekly, and the wide brown eyes stared at me vaguely. "I'm sorry, Corny," she said, in a small voice. "I'm really blind as a bat—near-sighted. You're just a blur across the room." She held up the dark spectacles. "These are prescription. I wear them rather than ordinary glasses because—out of vanity. That's why I couldn't really describe that man yesterday. I-I couldn't have described you insubordination.

"I think maybe it is a lack of command rather than insubordination," he said.

The governor said several times at the commission meeting that he did not feel the real fault was with the trooper in the field.
"But we definitely need better liaison between headquarters and the troopers."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Problems of the Arkansas State Police were to be aired today in a meeting of the state Police Commission with Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Topics on tap for the meeting were the controversial economy curtailment of State Police activity and an allegation made by the governor at a news conference Tuesday that some kind of "scandal" may be brewing in the department.

The get-together will be the first since activities of the State Police were severely curtailed until after I saw you last night with these on. I'm sorry about last night."

"Why?"
"I embarrassed you. I embarrassed myself."

"Try it again sometime," I said.
"Mother never talked that way before about Mr. Higby," Dawn said. "I was just told to take it or leave it. If I asked any questions I was told to shut up. She really cares for him, Corny."

LAST MONTH - IN HISTORY

March 15 in an effort to save enough funds to meet fiscal budget obligations.

The monthly activity report of the department for March covered only 15 days of the slackened period, yet showed officers traveled 114,130 miles.

The March 1963 report showed 382,501 miles covered, compared to 496,631.

Part of the reduced mileage Maj. Mack Thompson said, was due to his Feb. 21 order to cut down on traveling expenses.

The full impact of the curtailment will not be known until the April report is compiled, Thompson said.

There has been considerable speculation about Faubus' remarks that a "scandal" may be brewing in the department.

One official, who declined to be identified, said "We just don't know what he meant."

Col. Herman Lindsey, director of the department, declined to talk about Faubus' statement. He said he wanted to discuss it with the governor.

Several times during the debate over the curtailed services of the State Police Faubus has said troopers were abusing expense allowances. However, he indicated these abuses had been corrected.

A criticism by Faubus that the troopers were spending too much time parked on the roadside
